

Call for Papers for the Minnesota English Journal

For the Fall 1988 and Winter-Spring 1988-89 issues.

We encourage articles on a wide variety of topics of interest to the English profession in Minnesota. Here are some suggested topics —

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. Teaching strategies/classroom activities | 11. Non-fiction literature |
| 2. Rhetoric/teaching composition | 12. Professional issues |
| 3. Language issues | 13. Writing-across-the-curriculum (particularly descriptions of programs) |
| 4. Literary theory | 14. Canadian literature for American students |
| 5. Composition research | 15. Bibliographies relating to the previous topics |
| 6. Literary criticism/analysis with an awareness of teaching | 16. Reviews of current books |
| 7. Censorship issues | 17. Children's literature |
| 8. Teaching critical thinking | 18. American literature |
| 9. Discussions of unique courses or programs in English/language arts | 19. British literature |
| 10. Reading — research and pedagogy | 20. World literature |
| | 21. Literature for young adults |

Deadlines - Fall 1988 - September 15, 1988

Winter-Spring 1988-89 - December 15, 1988

We encourage teachers of English/language arts at all levels to submit their work to the Minnesota English Journal for possible publication. See the editorial statement for further information.

Send manuscripts to — Richard Dillman, Editor
English Department
St. Cloud State University
St. Cloud, MN 56301